Wild Space's mission is to expand the audience for contemporary dance through performance and educational programs in the greater Milwaukee area and throughout southeastern Wisconsin, reaching diverse communities. The company's goals are to create and produce new, original work each season that engages a diverse audience and implement outreach programs that reach under-served students.

ABOUT THE COMPANY

Founded by Artistic Director Debra Loewen in 1986, Wild Space is celebrating more than three decades in Milwaukee. Known for site-specific works and artistic collaborations, the company has created more than 130 original dance works, which have been performed to critical acclaim throughout Wisconsin, and on tour in Minneapolis, Chicago, New York, Japan and South Korea. These works include productions inspired by the lives and voices of Milwaukee, and site-specific dance events celebrating the community's built and natural environment.

This season, Wild Space commemorates 35 years of dancemaking in Milwaukee by making live performance accessible and safe to diverse communities. Events include Top of the Lot benefit for Wild Space (Aug. 10th at Brewery Parking Structure Pabst Complex, 1213 N. 9th St.); Flipside/Lakeside, a free site-specific performance created for Lakeside @ MAM (Aug. 5th, 12th, 19th, 26th at Milwaukee Art Museum, 700 N. Art Museum Dr.); Wild Space 35th Anniversary Show (Dec. at UWM Mitchell Hall Studio 254, 3203 N. Downer Ave.). A new initiative, InSite: Choreographic Apprenticeship will develop and support choreographers of color in the creation of site-based dance and premiere their work in a new neighborhood (Spring '22).

Loewen has garnered critical acclaim and awards, including a 2015 Career Recognition from the Wisconsin Dance Council, a 2011 Milwaukee Arts Board Artist of the Year Award and multiple fellowships from Milwaukee County, the Wisconsin Arts Board and the National Endowment for the Arts. A senior lecturer at UWM, Loewen has taught at Lawrence University, the University of Delaware and Alverno College. She holds a BFA in dance from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign and an MFA in dance from UWM.

ARTISTIC STATEMENT – DEBRA LOEWEN

In the rehearsal process I strive to work with the dancers to incorporate their ideas, actions, and movements into the development of each dance. This collaborative approach to creating dances offers a basic framework for perceiving, understanding, and executing movement and dance activity.

The dances I make are not based on one school of dance technique – instead I look at each dance as an opportunity to invent or create a new movement language. Choreography has always been the most fascinating way for me to learn about the world around me. The dances I create begin as movement investigations of these ideas and issues.

I like dances that challenge the audience members to create individual responses and connections to the movement ideas that unfold before them. Choreography ought to engage the intellect, satisfy the eye, and offer the audience members a reflection of their humanity.

PERFORMANCE

A striking perspective on movement in space, Wild Space's acclaimed site-specific events transform Milwaukee landmarks into "...imagination-stirring, site-specific modern dance performances..." (Milwaukee Journal Sentinel). Recent events include Into the Garden at Villa Terrace (16), Artifacts at Riverwest's Goat Palace (17), Acts of Discovery at a former dairy distributor (18), Making/Unmaking at The Warehouse (19), Off the Page at Boswell Book Company (20), and the Parking Lot Dance Series at four lots across the city (20-21).

Cross-discipline works are also a central focus for Wild Space performances, bringing together actors, musicians and emerging choreographers to create original work inspired by history, the human condition and a generous dose of humor. Recent collaborators include the Milwaukee Art Museum, Milwaukee Opera Theatre and local artist Tom Bamberger.

OUTREACH

Wild Space outreach programs expand students' understanding of dance, visual art, music and physical fitness. A company-in-residence at Lincoln Center Middle School of the Arts in Milwaukee, Wild Space has worked with more than 70 Milwaukee Public Schools and is a cultural partner in the Milwaukee Symphony Orchestra's Project ACE (Arts in Community Education). Over the past three seasons, Wild Space reached 5,757 young people. Programs include Project Dance Makers for pre-school through high school, Wild Arts Summer Camp, and after-school residencies.

Critics' Comments

"...a fascinating evening of dance and sound."

Milwaukee Journal Sentinel

"...the show made clear that for 30 years Wild Space has been home to performers of great character."

Shepherd Express

"Let your mind wander into the space with the dancers, and something remarkable happens—moments of drama and connection unfold."

Milwaukee Magazine

"At a performance of such magnitude and complexity as Debra Loewen's Into the Garden with Wild Space Dance Company...the once-in-a-lifetime fact of the event is overwhelming."

Shepherd Express

"Loewen was asking what dance is. Her answers were unpretentious reminders of the works of modern art masters she admires..."
